These animals come out at night. So owls come out at night, too!

ANIMALS

Hanging With Mom

Baby orangutans learn to live in the trees. They learn it all from Mom.

Mom hangs.
She climbs.
The baby watches and tries. Soon, the baby will climb, just like Mom.

The baby watches Mom find food. Soon, the baby will find its own food, just like Mom.

Orangutans
eat mostly fruit.
They also eat
bark, leaves,
and roots.

Babies are born in nests high up in trees.

It is time to sleep. Mom builds a nest in the trees. One day, the baby will build its own nests, just like Mom. But for now, snuggling in Mom's nest is the best.

Orangutans live on two islands, Borneo and Sumatra. Find these islands on the map on the back page.

Some hyenas live in a country called Botswana. Find Botswana on the map on the back page.

Adult hyenas chase away lions from the group. Now the cubs stay safe.

Adult hyenas also find food together. The group catches big animals.

A few older hyenas watch over cubs while the group hunts.

The cubs wrestle and play chase. This teaches them how to hunt. One day the cubs will work as a team, too!

A Deer Grows A

1

Every winter, male roe deer grow new antlers. They use them to fight other males and attract female deer.

2

A soft skin called velvet covers the new, short antlers. The velvet protects the antlers and helps them grow tall.

Antlers

3

The antlers keep growing. The deer rubs off the velvet on a tree.

Roe deer live in three countries: Scotland, England, and Wales. Find them on the map on the back page.

4

The new antlers are underneath. In the fall, the deer sheds the antlers. They will grow again in winter!
